Eric defends hospitals, clinics, healthcare facilities, and nursing homes, as well as individual physicians, dentists, pharmacists and mental health service providers against allegations of medical negligence, and assists clients in Washington Medical Commission investigations, insurance grievances, and credentialing matters in both Washington and Idaho.

Eric also represents the insureds of local and national insurance providers, defending individuals, partnerships, sole proprietorships and corporations in complex negligence actions in Washington and Idaho state and federal courts.

Although the vast majority of Eric's legal work is limited to defending clients against accusations of negligence, Eric represents plaintiffs in personal injury actions involving motor vehicle collisions, sexual assaults, and anti-harassment to facilitate future treatment, recovery and retribution.
